Our counselling service

All our patients have the opportunity to access counselling during or soon after every stimulated cycle. This support is an important part of the care that we provide and we encourage you to use it.

Our qualified, experienced counsellors are located in numerous locations and can offer you face to face consultations in the clinic or phone and video appointments.

Our counsellors are available as an ongoing source of non-judgemental support. So be kind to yourself and remember you are not alone. Get in touch with us and have a chat.

How can we support you?

We can help to equip you with the skills needed to manage emotions and cope better with day to day stresses, whether these are related to fertility treatment or not. Our goal is to help you gain a greater sense of control.

We can help you work through

- Whether to have fertility treatment
- Struggles during fertility treatment
- Relationship issues
- Personal anxiety, depression and stress
- Unexpected outcomes such as miscarriage, failed fertilisation or implantation
- Using a donor (sperm, eggs, embryos)
- When to stop having fertility treatment
- What to do with unused frozen embryos
